WHO WE ARE

A Private Investment Firm Built for Generations

Founded in 2005, Oxford began as a commercial real estate advisory practice before recognizing that the greatest opportunity lay in owning. Today we are a principal investor and operator with more than 513,000 SF across two core markets, plus a Kansas City holding, predominantly shallow-bay industrial and flex space, acquired with 100% family capital, no outside investors, and no fund structure.

We target the structural undersupply of functional Class B/C industrial space in secondary markets, acquiring what institutional buyers avoid: high-vacancy assets with deferred maintenance, environmental complexity, or fractured ownership. Below-market leases reset at expiry, occupancy climbs through active management, and proceeds recycle into accretive acquisitions. Conservative leverage means we can close all-cash, with no financing contingency, and hold through any cycle.

01 · Basis

Buy below replacement cost

A margin of safety is built in at acquisition, not hoped for at exit.

02 · Operate

Manage actively

Leasing, capital work, and tenant relationships handled hands-on in every market.

03 · Hold

Compound for decades

Permanent family capital. No fund life, no forced sale, no exit clock.

Price is the acquisition price on the settlement statement; $/SF is price divided by the SF shown. Value ÷ Price compares Oxford's internal estimate of current value (September 2026, 100% basis) with that price; it is not an appraisal and does not reflect capital invested after acquisition.

LEADERSHIP

A Family Firm, Directly Accountable

Eric Goldberg

FOUNDER

Washington University in St. Louis, Accounting

Eric Goldberg founded Oxford Realty Advisors in 2005 after a career in commercial real estate advisory and accounting. He has built Oxford into a vertically integrated owner-operator of industrial and flex properties across multiple markets. His investment philosophy centers on acquiring functional industrial assets at a basis that provides a margin of safety against downside risk while positioning for long-term compounding through operational improvements and rent resets.

Gabriel Goldberg

VICE PRESIDENT, ACQUISITIONS

Cornell University, Economics

Gabriel Goldberg leads Oxford's acquisition pipeline, from deal sourcing and underwriting to negotiation and closing. He manages relationships with the firm's broker network, oversees due diligence for all new acquisitions, and is building the technology infrastructure to scale Oxford's operations.

WHAT OUR PARTNERS SAY

> "I've worked with Oxford for about 13 years and we've completed half a dozen transactions together. They consistently perform as capable buyers. When the opportunity is right, they overlook small problems and keep the bigger picture in mind. They've been on the broker side before, so they know the importance of trust and do not waste my time. Professional, easy to work with, and very responsive."
>
> Nathan Pealer · Managing Director Investments, Marcus & Millichap

> "Oxford Realty operates in a highly professional fashion. Leasing, management, and asset care are taken in a balanced approach to achieve highly productive properties. Working with Oxford has been a pleasure for all these many years."
> Carl Truitt · Property Manager

> "From day one it has felt more like a partnership than a typical owner/manager relationship. They are always available and very involved — fair, willing to spend money when needed, and always thinking long term."
>
> Paul Trautman · KRG Real Estate

WHY OXFORD
